As with all forms of polymorphs, it is useful for a variety of purposes. The advantage of using a wand is that you don't need to be able to cast a high-level spell, although there is a limited amount of charge in each wand. The most common uses include polyplil and trying to polymorph your pet into something high level (but beware of systemic shock). Polymorphizing hostile monsters is usually the last attempt, as this can create even more dangerous outside-level monster types, but this can be useful in specific situations. Also, if you have polymorphic control or are immutable, and are surrounded by hordes of nasty monsters, breaking this wand can be quite effective in getting out of the jam (no matter what they become may be easier to deal with). You can also use this technique to polymorphic hordes of pets in stronger ones, although keep in mind that you don't want to try this with pets that are too weak to survive the explosion from the start (such as jackals) as a massive pet can leave you with a very low alignment. Beware, breaking this wand will polymorph you even if you are magic resistant. Monsters can zap this wand on themselves, but mercifully, mercifully, won't generate out-of-depth monsters. Self-useErit You can polymorph yourself, zapping z it on yourself .. With polymorphic control, you can choose which monster to become. This can be incredibly useful, see Polymorph-Samo-polymorph for details. GenerationEdit Wands make up 4% of all randomly generated items in the main dungeon, 6% in containers, 5% at Rogue level and 8% in Gehennom. There is a 4.5% chance that a randomly generated wand will be a polymorph stick. Monsters can be created with this wand as a misc item if their difficulty is five or less.
