This is the second series of the battle Alita franchise, and a direct sequel to the original series. The series tells the story of Alita (or Gully in the original Japanese version and several other languages), continuing her quest to uncover her mysterious past. The story continues in the third and final series of Battle of Angel Alita: The Mars Chronicle. History See also: List of Angel Alita's Battle: The Last Order of Alita's Characters Performs Attack in the Last Order. The Last Order begins when Alita is reborn by the nanotechnology of Desi Nova in the floating city of Tiphara. The dark secrets of the city are brutally revealed, but this turns out to be a small part of the complex world. Go into space with new and old companions to find her lost friend Lou Collins and learn more about her forgotten past, Alita is bogged down in an interplanetary struggle between the major powers of the colonized solar system. Along the way, she forms an alliance with three of alita's replicas, who have now begun to think for themselves, the dubious super hacker, and Nova herself when she enters the zenith of the things of the tournament (S.O.T.T.), a competition fight held every ten years. In the course of history, more background is about the creation of the Battle of Angel Alita, which was not disclosed in the previous series revealed, for example, how the Earth emerged from the catastrophic effects of winter that wiped out most of the population. Installing Earth's wasteland after a catastrophic solar flare and asteroid collision that created a long winter impact and almost made people extinct. Some managed to survive and, with the help of a mysterious quantum computer, to restore civilization to the fact that it is in the last order. The colonization of the solar system and the complex policy between the now independent colonies left the Earth's surface cut off and underdeveloped. Scrapyard and Tiphares are in that once the U.S. (particularly the area of what is now Kansas City). Tiphares is currently a great laboratory for his much nicer twin city in space - Kethers. Tiphares is a futuristic utopian city that is suspended several thousand feet above Scrapyard. Initially, Tiphares was designed to be a prototype society that was designed to test candidates for harsh space travel. However, after the Cam Rahm disaster, Tiphares lost contact with both the surface and the twin city of Kethers. So Tipharez is primarily the source of the living human brain, which is integrated into The Kethers quantum computational network, known as Melchizedek. The original name in Japan is Salem. Keteres is a twin city of Tiphars in space, connected to each other through an inter-regionally balanced orbital elevator. It is also connected to an orbital ring, which is balanced by a similar orbital elevator and a space city on the opposite side. Kethers is a kind of utopian human society. However, the world that enjoys there is actually in The system of mind-monitoring computer chips of brain implants and the ubiquitous system known as unanimous. In B to obtain citizenship in Keteres, individuals must have these implants. The original name in Japan is Jeru. Leviathan I was once one of the five interstellar ships of the colony, but it is the only one left after the disaster of Cam Ran, caused by the past self Alita Yoko. It is currently docked at the second point of the Earth's Lagrange, serving as a space colony. The central center with artificial gravity houses an entire city and huge war game zones where people have made immortal nanotechnology pay to fight for pleasure. Mars, the first Earth-colonized planet, is currently under a four-day civil war, and almost every side is secretly supported by one of the largest powers of the solar system. Venus is currently terraforming using a giant mirror in orbit, blocking most of the sun and cooling the boiling surface. A number of orbiting cities form the Republic of Yunuss (Vener Republic) and provide homes for a race of transhuman people with grotesque physique and sympathy for vile debauchery, such as quasi-cannibalism. The author uses the wrong French language to describe it, the correct form is the Republic of Yunus. Jupiter is now almost entirely covered by Dyson's incomplete sphere. It is in this area now live Jovians who gave up their human bodies in exchange for the bodies of cyborgs. The materials needed to complete the sphere come from Saturn's moons and the asteroid belt, the same moons and asteroids where Venus receives materials for its own terraforming, leading to tension between Jupiter and Venus. A type-V mutant is a term used to refer to people who are infected with a retrovirus called V-virus. The virus causes mutations in DNA that lead to carriers, exhibited vampire characteristics, especially pronounced fangs and bloodlust. The origin of the V-virus was not clear, but Type-V mutants have existed throughout human history. It was only at the end of the 20th century that advances in biology revealed that vampires were once infected with the V virus. The production of Premise Last Order continues with Volume 9 battle Angel Alita, but is at odds with the original story, as it comes after Alita is seemingly killed by a puppet bomb, but ignores the events of the original ending, such as Kethers' transformation into a nanotechnical space flower, the subsequent transformation of Alita into the flesh and blood of a human girl and her reunion with the Figure. Motivation Kihiro said that because of health problems, he was forced to cut the Battle Angel Alita short with the ending he was not satisfied with. After working on other aqua Knight projects and manga, he decided to revisit Alita's story in 2000. Originally, the story was scheduled to follow that of playStation game Gunnm: The Martian Memory, but its story is only used and sparingly, as Kishiro expanded and changed history. The publication of the last order was on hiatus from the 100th party due to disagreements between the and editor of Shueisha's Ultra Jump. The editor wanted Kishiro to refrain from using the word psycho in his manga dialogue. Later, Kihiro offered to resume the manga only if the legal department of Ultra Jump apologized to him for reviewing the three sections of the dialogue in the new reissue of Battle Angel Alita, and Shueisha would recall the new reissue and return the revised sections to their original form. If his demands are not met, Kishiro threatened to switch publishers to Kodanshi's evening magazine. Kihiro's demands were apparently rejected by Shueisha and Kodansha, who subsequently announced that Last Order would join The Evening's in the eighth issue in March 2011, which was released on March 22 with Chapter 101 manga. In early 2014, Kishiro announced that a new series of Battle Angel, tentatively entitled The Chronicles of the Martian War, would begin in the second half of the year.
